Different Nations, One Heart: from Hong Kong, Brazil and Mongolia

Sarah · November 2, 2026

AI summary

Last week, two groups with a shared desire to serve North Korean people came together for an evening of worship, testimonies, and prayer. What began as a gathering between SAVE NK and KAIROS became something more: an opportunity for people from different countries, backgrounds, and stages of life to encourage one another as one family in Christ. The evening began with worship led by the young people of SAVE NK. With hearts focused on Jesus and North Korea, participants gathered to praise God bef…

Last week, two groups with a shared desire to serve North Korean people came together for an evening of worship, testimonies, and prayer. What began as a gathering between SAVE NK and KAIROS became something more: an opportunity for people from different countries, backgrounds, and stages of life to encourage one another as one family in Christ.

The evening began with worship led by the young people of SAVE NK. With hearts focused on Jesus and North Korea, participants gathered to praise God before sharing their personal stories and experiences.

Different Stories, One Heart

With a sincere heart, warm words and deep passion, the members of Kairos group shared their life stories, walk with Christ and how they received a heart for North Korea. Coming from different places, but with the same goal: serve Jesus among needed people.

After years of commitment to ministry related to North Korea, a couple from Hong Kong shared about their experience and continued dedication offering new perspectives on the different ways people can contribute to this mission.

Participants from Brazil also shared parts of their journeys. Whether preparing to serve North Korean people through field work, or through a career in international development cooperation using professional skills to support people in need, or recently beginning the journey of faith, they all shared their desires to serve God.

Although their stories and paths were different, a common purpose connects them: to follow Jesus and make His love known through their lives and work.

Learning from Mongolia

The gathering also welcomed field workers serving in Mongolia, who shared their experiences and insights into the country.

They introduced some of Mongolia's particularities, including its relationships with neighboring countries and its connections with North Korea. Mongolia's position and relationships in the region make it an important place to understand when considering future opportunities for engagement and assistance related to North Korea.

God is doing great things everywhere, and it is a great privilege to participate in His work!

Encouraging One Another in Prayer

The evening moved then into a special time of prayer. Members of SAVE NK gathered to pray for each of the KAIROS guests, lifting up their lives, future plans, and ministries.

It was a powerful moment of encouragement. God's presence was palpable and those who had come to share their experiences also received the support and prayers of a community willing to walk alongside them.

After the meeting, as participants continued talking and exchanging their reflections, something beautiful became clear… SAVE NK members had been encouraged by hearing the testimonies of people from such different backgrounds who shared the same heart for serving Jesus. And at the same time, the KAIROS participants felt equally blessed by the warmth, prayers, and encouragement they had received from the SAVE NK community.

What stood out was not the difference between the two groups, but everything they shared.

There may be different ministries, professional paths, nationalities, and ways of serving, but the purpose remains the same: to worship Jesus and make His name known throughout the world.

The gathering was a reminder that we are not walking this mission alone. As brothers and sisters in Christ, we can learn from one another, pray for one another, and strengthen one another for the work ahead.

And as the relationship between SAVE NK and KAIROS grows stronger, so does the shared hope of one day bringing the love and hope of Jesus to the people of North Korea.

Generated by LinkAsia (linkasia.net).